FEATURES:

- With this special model, geriatric training acquires particularly high esteem.
- It presents itself as the ideal aid to teachers of geriatric care, who can practise all the relevant measures realistically using this model.
- The outer aspect of this special care doll is an impressive imitation of the appearance of an elderly person.
- Lesions specifically reproduced on the body, such as, for example, liver spots (normal and pathological), skin inflammation under the female breast and a pressure sore complete the appearance and further increase the didactic value of the model.
- Under some visual inspection, the following characteristics appear: normal and cancerous mole, stage 1 sacral ulcer, dilated and constricted pupils and reddened skin folds
